BRIDAL

Mignon believes that there is nothing more luminous than a bride on her wedding day. “One of my fondest memories of my wedding day is my mother placing a strand of pearls around my neck. LUZ is the Spanish word for light. I chose to name this new collection LUZ to describe the glow that surrounds a bride on her wedding day.” Mignon’s first foray into bridal, the collection is inspired by vintage insertion lace and includes jewelry designs, bandeaux, sash and wristlet.

Sash launching late September.

“Gros Rouge” finish was used for the custom built table and armoire. This type of finish was used in historical Louisiana furnishings. The table is modeled after one of the oldest surviving pieces of Louisiana furniture, a refectory table made for the Ursuline Convent in the 1730’s.

The original chandelier is by local artist Julie Neill. Neill used Mignon’s Serpentine Jeweled Cuff, which pays homage to the roof-line ironwork of Le Petit Theatre in the French Quarter as a model for the chandelier. The steel frame is coated in four layers of hand applied silver leaf, and solid rock crystals are in place of the semi-precious chalcedony used in the jewelry design.

Mignon collaborated with David Waggoner of Waggoner & Ball Architects, to create a balance of traditional New Orleans materials mixed with modern architectural forms.

The custom cases and walls are walnut and pickled cypress. Cypress is an indigenous building material found along the Gulf Coast and used for building since the late 1800’s. The floor is Noir Stone, which references the traditional slate used in many historic New Orleans buildings.

MIGNON AND THE ARTS

MIGNON RECEIVES HONOR FROM THE OGDEN MUSEUM OF SOUTHERN ART

The Ogden Museum of Southern Art honored Mignon at the inaugural Magnolia Ball on Friday, June 20th. The Magnolia Ball benefits the Ogden Center for Southern Craft and Design, which highlights the artistic contributions of craft artists and designers from the American South.

“The event itself is an opportunity to recognize the outstanding contributions of an artist who represents this important facet of the Ogden Museum’s mission and story of the American South,” says director William Andrews. “In the inaugural year, it seemed very fitting to present this award to Mignon Faget, whose work is a stunning expression and celebration of this ideal.”

OPÉRA LOUISIANE

Mignon appeared on stage in the Opéra Louisiane production of Die Fledermaus. Celebrity guests participated in the performance to help raise funds for Opéra Louisiane.

LSU TEXTILE AND COSTUME MUSEUM

Mignon hosted an evening for the LSU Textile and Costume Museum. Our Baton Rouge Towne Center gallery is a donation drop off location for the Museum. Donations of vintage and designer apparel are sold during the Textile Museum’s annual “Your Friend’s Closet Sale”.

FALL PREVIEW

Mignon has spent the past few seasons reconnecting with her roots as a fashion designer, taking her inspiration from antique lace. This fall she is once again inspired by the tactile experience that comes from fabric touching the skin. In the upcoming months look for a collection of silk tassels in a variety of colors to accent the fall ready-to-wear color palette. The tassels move with the wearer and create an element of intrigue, allure, and glamour. Also launching this fall is OBSCURA, a reincarnation of the LUZ collection featuring luxurious peacock pearls and an oxidized finish. OBSCURA is meant to be layered and is a sophisticated yet edgy alternative to wearing traditional pearls.

FAQ:

What are Swarovski Crystal Pearls?

Swarovski Crystal pearls are simulated pearls made with a crystal core. Their lustrous shimmer is achieved using a unique coating technology developed by Swarovski. It is the first production method in the world to combine the quality of a perfect crystal core with the exquisite beauty of a pearl coating. This innovative technology by Swarovski gives the pearl a mysterious glow, which appears to be radiating from within the pearl itself.
